DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Claim Objections

1. A claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: In claim 1, lines 8-9 "the outer edge" lacks a positive antecedent basis. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Jiao et al. Jiao et al discloses a light source 8 and optical reflector 20 adjacent to the light source for producing a beam which is generally spread widthwise with respect to the axis of the road, wherein the said optical reflector 20 has a continuous reflective surface that creates in said beam at least two distinct zones (see figure 3) of maximum light intensities, wherein said optical reflector has a central axis passing through the light source in the beam direction, and is asymmetrical along a plane on the central axis so said distinct zones have different angular offsets with at least one distinct zone located on the outer edge of the reflective surface (see figure 3, where Jiao et al shows the maximum intensities are on two of the outer edges of the reflective surface (40.9 Lumen on the outer edges in the Y-direction of the reflector between -45mm to -15mm and 45mm to 15mm).

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed on 06/03/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive in view of the Jiao et al. The examiner agrees with the applicant that Staiger et al doesn't specifically teach the limitation of "said distinct zones have different angular offsets with at least one distinct zone located on the outer edge of the reflective surface."

However, the examiner doesn't agree with applicant's argument that Jiao et al fails to disclose two distinct zones of maximum light intensities. As broadly claimed, the reflector has two outer edges, each in the X and Y direction. Therefore, Jiao et al has two distinct zones which have different angular offsets with at least one distinct zone located on the outer edge of the reflective surface (see figure 3, where Jiao et al shows the maximum intensities are on two of the outer edges of the reflective surface (40.9 Lumen on the outer edges in the Y-direction of the reflector between -45mm to -15mm and 45mm to 15mm).
